Transitional provisions

This version of the syllabus, after revision, applies from the fall semester of 2025 but covers students admitted in the fall semester of 2024 (students admitted in the fall semester of 2023 are not affected).

The program description has been clarified and the course list (courses in the program) has been updated. Students who began their studies in the fall semester of 2024 or earlier can progress to higher years of the programme according to this syllabus without any special measures. However, for students admitted in the fall semester of 2023 or earlier, this means that the course Business Management with a focus on Forestry and Landscape is offered in year 3 instead of the course Environmental Discourse and Communication, which was offered to these students in year 2.
